Project Star talk heard by community group

Project Star, a program designed to combat illiteracy in Mississippi, was outlined by Rev. Philip McLoone, pastor of Our Lady of Mercy Church in Pass Christian, on Tuesday, Aug. 24, when he addressed members of the Hancock County Community Relations Council meeting in St. Rose de Lima School.

He further spoke on the success of Project Headstart in Pass Christian.

Presided over by Victor Francisiewicz, vice president, the council unanimously approved the recommendations of the committee on fair employment practices. Their job, under committee chairman Warren Carver, will be to encourage employers within the community to adopt a non-discriminatory policy insofar as their personnel hiring practices are concerned.

This is time to build fire lanes, forester states

Now is the time to have fire lanes plowed if you plan to have any constructed this year.

Area Forester Arthur Verdel of Mississippi Forestry Commission explained this season is more suitable for commission crews to do the work because of low fire danger and they have more time to put on the job.

The service is provided on an actual cost basis by the forestry commission. There is no limitation on the number of miles of fire lanes which can be plowed for any landowner but the policy is to plow lanes for as many timber owners as possible.

Information or assistance with fire lane construction may be secured by phoning the forestry commission at 467-4711 or 255-7152.

SHELTERING FROM BETSY AT BAY HIGH SCHOOL

"Conservative View"

by James J. Kilpatrick

A large number of dedicated, and wonderfully idealistic men, are meeting in Washington this week, as members of the World Conference on World Peace Through Law. Their purpose is to seek means—coercive means—to make mankind behave. They will fall in this purpose; but it is important, nonetheless, to praise their effort and to wish it well.
It is a good dream that they dream. No one questions this. The dream of a day when nations would go to court, and not to war, is as old as the Greeks. It was an old concept when Hugo Grotius came along, early in the 17th Century, and made himself the father of international law. In our own time—in an era of rockets and missiles and orbital flight, and of planes that travel at twice the speed of sound—the notion of an enforceable international law takes on a sharp and immediate meaning. But the time of these jurists is not yet. They ask more of man than man is yet prepared to yield.
This is not to say that the chief concerns of this "World Conference on World Peace Through Law" do not make sense; they do make sense. And none of the papers to be discussed makes more sense than a key paper by Donald A. Wehmeyer, an assistant legal adviser to the State Department, that has been widely circulated in advance of the sessions. He is suggesting to the idealists that they crawl before they walk, and walk before they run. In brief, he is proposing a system of lower international courts, of less prestige and more usefulness, than the pitiful charade of the "World Court" whose 15 members now languish in inglorious contempt.
Mr. Wehmeyer's point is valid. He is saying that there are scores of small disputes among nations every year that are not sufficiently important to go before the World Court. If there were lower tribunals, mutually respected, in which disputing nations could try patent rights and salvage rights and copyrights, it is entirely conceivable that a system of international jurisprudence at the level of "world peace" might gradually be developed. In time, members of the World Court might yet have something to occupy their lofty positions: They have handed down but 13 final judgments in the past 19 years.
Nothing indicates that what might be termed the "Wehmeyer concept" will be adopted, for all its common-sensical soundness, and for a very good reason: The chief apostles of world peace through world law never yet have comprehended the essentially conservative instincts of mankind everywhere. They are oblivious to the lump in the throat that rises with a flag, or to the tear that wells with a national anthem. These are manifestations, in their view, of a provincial nationalism. And they are above all that.

Thus, we witness the writhing impotence of the international lawyers with the pathetic failure of the World Court. Why has the World Court expired of its own impotence? It is not merely that its orders are unenforceable; it is rather that fewer than one-third of the nations of the world will accept its jurisdiction absolutely. And these are the one-third of the nations of the world that scarcely matter. The great and powerful nations, among them the United States, will not submit unreservedly to the World Court, and for good reasons: We have our own system of law—a system that protects rights of property and guarantees "due process"—and we are not about to yield it up. This we conserve.
No system of "world law" will prevail that attempts to override these essentially domestic loyalties. The more that international dreamers urge repeal of the "Connally amendment," which permits the United States to reject the World Court's jurisdiction in domestic matters, the more an alarmed citizenry will insist that the amendment be retained. Our own courts are not perfect, and there is today a welling distrust of their wisdom in certain areas, but they remain the guardians of values of crucial importance. These values cannot be surrendered to the will of alien judges indifferent to their meaning.
As Mr. Wehmeyer and many others have observed, vast areas remain—and these areas are expanding all the time—in which a new body of international authority could be created. Without sacrifice of any national principle of law, a modest system of international tribunals could find much useful work to do. But "world peace" is too much. Let us first proceed, jealously, cautiously, tentatively, to respect decisions on who may fish where in what waters, and little by little, after a long time, with much patience, we may yet take significant strides toward "world law." For the time being, we must move in infinitely tiny steps, or not at all.

Merry-Go-Round

BY JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - The most dangerous war since Hitler invaded Poland 25 years ago is being waged between India and Pakistan—and a large part of the blame may be laid upon the United States. Because without the arms we have supplied to Pakistan with so liberal a hand for the past eleven years, there could be no such war.
The U.S. purpose, in theory at least, was to help contain Red China, though it should have been evident enough that the Pakistanis were more likely to use the arms against India than the Red Chinese. Drew Pearson saw and reported on this danger as far back as 1959 when he visited both Pakistan and India in advance of President Eisenhower's trip to those countries.
And in more recent years, Pakistan's gravitation toward Red China has made our arms-aid policy even less defensible. Now we have cut off arms shipments, but this is strictly locking the barn after the horse has been stolen.

Despite the danger that the India-Pakistan war could escalate into the major conflict which historically seems to come once in every quarter century, there is strong hope in Washington that this will not happen.
It is true that Red China has troops on the border of India and is in a position to invade India again as she did in 1962. But intelligence estimates are that Red China will not launch any major invasion—because of the Soviet Union.
Russia has given India considerable aid in recent years, even sent her MIG fighters. If Peking sent large masses of troops into India on the excuse of helping Pakistan, it would amount to a military slap in the face to Moscow. And despite all their differences with the Kremlin, the Red Chinese are not believed likely to go this far.
Peking may easily decide that the India-Pakistan war has plenty of value against Moscow in the propaganda battle. The Kremlin already is on the spot over its "friendship" with the West and its limited aid to North Viet Nam. Now the Red Chinese can hurl charges of Soviet aid to India in an "imperialistic" war against Pakistan.
No progress
The search for peace in Viet Nam is floundering. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg's efforts to enlist the support of the United Nations has got nowhere.
Secretary General U Thant is willing to urge negotiations, but has told Goldberg that the United Nations cannot risk getting in the middle of a dispute involving the big powers.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor, Sea Coast Echo:
The Commission Council takes this opportunity to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the wonderful co-operation and assistance given by so many of our citizens in every walk of life during Betsy's recent visit.
There were many untold instances and examples of unselfish and dedicated acts of service to our unfortunate fellow men. To single out any individual would be unfair since more than 200 people participated in this tremendous work. We are all indebted to and are proud of our local Civil Defense group. The competent and effective manner in which this organization performed during this emergency is a lasting tribute to the leadership and administrative ability of the personnel who headed up this wonderful organization.
John A. Scaife, Mayor.
J. Cyril Glover, Commissioner.
Warren E. Traub, Commissioner.
Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:
We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all the volunteers who worked during and after hurricane Betsy.
Even though we were spared the full force of this hurricane, without the efforts of the civil defense volunteers we could have had considerable loss of life. We know we inconvenienced many people with curfews and roadblocks. However, looting was kept from our community. Please be patient while we rebuild our community.
Thank you again for your patience and understanding. God bless you.
JOHN LONGO, JR., CD Director
GARFIELD LADNER Mayor
Waveland, Miss.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:
Please print the attached letter I have forwarded to officials of Mississippi Test Facility.
Dear Sir:
Hurricane Betsy caused much physical damage to this community and other areas around us. However, because of your personal willingness to help; your readiness to go beyond what was expected of you; the genuine concern of the personnel at Mississippi Test Facility for our safety and comfort; NASA has some staunch supporters in Pearlington.
Thank you for giving us shelter, coffee, transportation, first aid, and in general, just being a "good Samaritan."
Sincerely,
H. THOMAS HERS, JR.
Pastor, First Southern Baptist Church, Pearlington.
The Editor, Sea Coast Echo:
As civil defense director of Hancock County I wish to express my thanks and gratitude to the many volunteer workers who turned out to assist me during our recent hurricane disaster.
I wish to express a special thanks for the co-operation of the Hancock County School System and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. They made available all buildings and equipment for the purpose of shelter, transportation and communications.
A note of thanks to the National Guard. We got good co-operation from the National Guard as long as Capt. Tom Logue was in command because the men under his command were local and had local interest.
I wish to thank the Missis-

Bits o' Betsy

Coincidentally and providentially, Harold Hatch of Electric Power Assn. last Wednesday ordered two poles delivered to the Bay Civil Defense headquarters in old Webb School for a permanent ham radio installation in case it was ever needed. It was in use less than 24 hours later with Jack Prichard and Jim Kirschner, newsmen from Los Angeles with the NASA project, in charge.
Boarded up this morning, reported Charlie Thomas of Fabey Drug at noon last Wednesday, explaining there was no time to do that and keep operating if Betsy did show. That was before she took a turn to the north.
One of the kindest gestures we've heard of is that from Tex Charrier of Holiday Nursery who is offering eggs from his chicken farm for as long as his supply lasts, to needy families who have lost all their food.
The waves came over the beach as high as the front of Our Lady of the Gulf Church. Tom Logue, CO of the local National Guard Company, checking on the condition of his own about 2 a.m., Friday in an open jeep, got drenched when sea broke over him.
Anna and Gilbert Gayant entertained with showers—not the bridal or stock variety. They simply invited their waterless friends by for a good, hot bath. Their oldest son, Tony, celebrated his 14th birthday in the midst of the storm.
Betsy didn't stop Lt. (j.g.) Ballard Argus from arriving home for his first leave in more than a year. He trudged down South Beach beneath suitcases, his guitar and other paraphernalia in Friday morning's rain after catching a plane to Mobile, a bus to Gulfport and a taxi as far as it could go in Bay St. Louis. Bill and Caroline's big loss was their yacht, the Galyppo, which sunk at the yacht club turning bottom side up.
Our saddest note of the period is the death of Polly (Pearl) Mazaraki's dad, 65-year-old Tom Lyons, who died last Thursday after breaking his hip a week earlier. Polly and Herman managed to reach Nashville, Tenn., for the funeral at about the same time Betsy got there.

Trans World Wildlife Farm out on U.S. 90 got at least one addition to the reptile family out of the hurricane. August Raunet, Jr., collared a five-foot rattlesnake, complete with 11 rattlers on the beach in front of his home, stashed it in a barrel and hauled it out to the farm.
Snakes washed up to the seawall must have come from some distant places, concluded Dolph Kellar, supervisor who's spent all his life hunting and fishing in these parts. He says he figured he was an authority on local snakes but some he's seen defy identification.

Bob Geiger, artist, restorer, etc., got a little different addition to his collection of artifacts when part of a ferris wheel washed up in his yard on Waveland Beach. He presumes it came from Biloxi—but it might be from Pontchartrain Beach. Incidentally, Bob advises anyone whose oil paintings got wet in Betsy, not to scrub them. Let them dry, upside down, in the shade, and the mud will flake off later. Take anything with backing under glass out of its frame and don't soap and water any furniture, particularly antique wood.
Betsy arrived just in time to greet the wife and six children of MTF manager Jackson M. Balch who moved into their newly purchased home at 624 West Beach in the Pass Thursday morning. They've been living in Huntsville, Ala.

Mississippi Highway Patrol for helping to enforce the curfew after the hurricane.
Due to our experience in last year's hurricane I do believe that if the National Guard and the Highway Patrol had set up their headquarters at the Court House they would have been more help to the county during the hurricane due to communications.
I wish to thank the Red Cross for helping in the shelters and for the help they are still giving throughout the county.
A rough estimate of damages done by Betsy in Hancock County will run between $8 and $10 million.
We are still working hard and long to try to get relief for the people who need it.
Chester Favre
County Civil Defense Director.
Editor, Sea Coast Echo:
We are indebted to our Mississippi Power Co. and all their men for working so hard to restore our lights as so many of us depend on electricity for cooking, plus lights. Also to the National Guard boys and all others who helped to protect our homes and the kind ones who took so many of us in.
Hope to be able to include the telephone people soon in thanks. Few have phones—only straight lines are open now.
Thanks again for power service.
MRS. V. SIMMS

P.S. Kindly ask the city people not to let their fire burn overnight. Consider the lot of those that can't get help.

WRECKAGE AT CLERMONT HARBOR

The British Commonwealth police efforts have received no encouragement from Peking and Hanoi.
President de Gaulle of France recently told Under Secretary of State George Ball that he doesn't expect Red China to soften her belligerent foreign policy until the old, implacable leaders die off.
So it looks like a diplomatic stalemate until the military tide takes a more positive turn.
Negro mayor
Much of the mayor opposition to the District of Columbia having home rule has been the fear of Southern Congressmen particularly, though not exclusively, that the local government of the nation's capital would be controlled by Negroes.
Now, with a home rule bill almost through Congress, and with the population of Washington about 54 per cent Negro because of the white exodus to the suburbs, the question is not over whether Washington will elect a Negro mayor but whether the Negro population, much of it poor and recently arrived from the South, will choose a reliable-looking leader as a mayor.
Some of the local Negro leaders in Washington have been extremely active both in civil rights and politics. But being so that the mayor to be elected will be a moderate who now is one of the three Commissioners appointed by the President to govern the district. Commissioner John Duncan, a man whose efficiency, wisdom and level-headedness had won him high office in Washington's government long before the civil rights issue became inflamed.

Eggs to face Grand Jury Betsy...

While many were recovering from the shock and stress of the hurricane, two local men, Lawrence Epperson, 24, and Harvey Mitchell, 21, were on their way to court on Friday during the height of Hurricane Betsy.

Unfortunately for the two, the local police were equal to the occasion and caught the pair in the act of looting.

Charged only with breaking and entering both were bound over and will appear before the Grand Jury...

Non tax gross income anticipated by the trustees amounts to $549,685, but this is reduced by an estimated $85,285 in uncollectable accounts and charity adjustments.

Board President Joe K. Duckworth appointed members T. T. Rabou, Jr., John D. Rutherford, Jr., and Cornelius J. Lader as a committee to look into the collection of accounts problem at the hospital and also generally check on the managerial systems used there.

When some of the board members commented on two pictures hanging in the board room, Administrator Thomas O. Logue reported they were among 41 given the hospital by T. G. and Y. Stores. The other 39 have been placed around the hospital, mostly in patient rooms.

CD director gives report

Grand Jury. Officers involved were Chief Nathan Garriga, and Patrolmen Billy Carbonet and Eric Nicasia.

Bay St. Louis area suffered no fatalities, no serious casualties and there were no confirmed reports of looting as a result of Hurricane Betsy, according to Bert Stiefel, city civil defense director.

Stiefel attributed this record to the co-operation of all volunteers and professional groups, including the civil defense volunteers for their untiring efforts, Bay St. Louis Commission Council for their leadership and guidance, the people of the area for working together, the National Guard, Highway Patrol, American Red Cross, various police departments and the news media.

Nashville Railroad Co.'s application before the Public Service Commission to close the Waveland freight depot after being notified the hearing has been continued to October. They also called on the Marine Corps or Naval Training Center at Gulfport to loan amphibious equipment to help clear the beaches from the debris of Betsy.

At Monday's meeting the board returned unopened bids, set for opening last Friday, on a 12-bed addition at Hancock General Hospital because of the hurricane situation and ordered new bids to be received at 2 p.m. Oct. 8. It appeared only one bid had arrived by the 10 a.m. deadline, another came later and a third prospect never got there.

The remainder of the day-long session was given over to planning for hurricane cleanup in consultation with Kenneth Phillips, state civil defense director. Mrs. Charles Russ, III, principal of Christ Episcopal Day School, and Rev. Charles R. Johnson, headmaster, requested quick temporary work on the seawall road from the school to St. Charles Street because of the one-way drive through school property for cars and buses hauling its 230 pupils. Supervisors inspected the situation at the luncheon recess.

Find haven...

Many personnel, sandwiches and coffee were made available throughout the night.

Other than the Red Cross Emergency Volunteers, who manned communications, rolled the building and offered continued assistance, those participating in operation of the shelter were Mrs. Phillip and Mrs. Edward Porter, Jr., American Red Cross; Mrs. W. A. Johns and Mrs. C.E. Lorette, American Red Cross; Women's Auxiliary, and Orlene Mosby, Doris Hirsch, Kathleen Scatfield and Shirley Scatfield.

Pearlington residents lodged for Betsy night in the new concrete and steel administration building of the Mississippi Test Facility.

Henry Auter and William Winterstein of NASA, William Roy of General Electric and James Travira, G. E. Sub-contractor, headed the welcoming committee and evacuees were assigned space within the structure with family units being housed in individual offices. The cafeteria was in full operation and frequent bulletins kept people abreast of weather information.

Fighting their way through the storm in an action described by many as being beyond the call of duty, MTF fire department personnel cleared a path through falling and fallen power lines and debris to reach the Logtown School. Gathering approximately 75 of the persons within, the NASA squad then reversed their tracks and took all to safety.

Described by evacuees as being a wonderful feeling to arrive at a strange place and immediately made to feel at home and, above all, welcome, high commendation was being made by the folks from Pearlington to MTF employees who handled any part of the sheltering and rescue operation.

Mrs. Joseph Griffin and Mrs. Robert Lucas handled affairs at Waveland School, assisted by Patricia Griffin who took care of registrations. Mr. Griffin was active with Waveland Civil Defense throughout the hurricane and, after both had finished looking after others, they returned home to find their house in ruins.

Our Lady of the Gulf School became the refuge of all on Friday when the homeless were gathered under one roof.

John Morrales, manager operations ably assisted by M. A. Phillips, Jr. and Mrs. Stella Cox. Others helping to place hurricane victims into homes were Joe Marochino and Ted Morrales.

Reassured by the concrete block construction the 196 refugees at Valens C. Jones School soon were settled down for a peaceful night within solid walls. Red Cross coffee and sandwiches were on hand and although facilities were available, no sick cases were reported. Civil Defense sheltering committee handling arrangements were: J.S. Price, chairman; James Drummond, R.A. Robinson and Johnny Wallace.

ATTENDS SEMINAR
Charles Carter, Jr., of Bay St. Louis, state Jaycee president, was among key Jaycees representing every state who participated in the second annual US Jaycee Mental Health seminar at the University of Michigan.

Schools...

ed by Hurricane Betsy and would be closed from the start of the school year.

Hamilton said the project was still in the talking stage and nothing could be done until the new assessment rolls are completed when the approximate amount of money to be received by the school system could be estimated. However, he pointed out that because of crowded conditions in some grades there was a dire need for a school in the former Webb School District.

McCullough noted that enrollment this year has risen to more than 2,300 and the teacher payroll from approximately $42,000 to more than $44,000 a month.

Bills for services in connection with construction of the new high school and renovations on existing buildings were approved. They were C.C. McDonald $14,000; Stevenson Electric Co. $693.14; Charles L. Proffer and Associates, architects, $234.18; W.W. Craig, clearing site and fill, $8,037; Mississippi Mechanical Co., pipe, fittings, etc., $18,630; Proffer $400.

Claim dockets were approved, McCullough noting expenses were more than usual because of school opening. He was authorized to borrow $15,000 to defray current expenses, a procedure necessary each year at this time. When possible the money is borrowed from city funds and repaid without interest when tax funds become available.

Attorney Sam L. Favre, Jr., was authorized to prepare an instrument giving the city easements over school property for laying sewerage pipe and to construct an emergency water tower near the football field.

Power hit 50 per cent

Power was hit 50 per cent in the Gulfport area, and in some areas, power was completely out. The power company reported that the damage was caused by high winds and heavy rain. The power company is working to restore power as quickly as possible.

Gregory said that about 50 per cent of the local services were damaged in the storm. Repairs were delayed by the heavy rain which prevented work on the lines because of water on the high power lines, he explained.

One hundred and twenty-four electric meters were under water in the storm. Clement Harbor suffering almost total damage. Waveland beach homes were next. Cedar Point. Meters for the demolished homes have not yet been located, Gregory reported. Otherwise, every meter which was under water has been replaced with the supply sent in from Meridian.

Sewer line fee fixed

A $70 flat fee per vacant lot to tie into sewer lines now being laid in Bay St. Louis was authorized by City Commission Council last Thursday.

Applications should be made immediately, accompanied by the deposit, and property owners should stake out where they want the line. The same procedure should be followed where the sewers are already in the streets to avoid damage to street surfacing lanes.

Mayor John A. Scalfide said a blanket change order will be issued to Osborn Contracting Co. of Birmingham, which has the sewer job, as soon as the applications are all in.

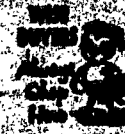

No petitions were filed in opposition to the proposed $115,000 BAWI bond issue for expansion of industrial handling plant and area were intended for same sale of the bonds. City Clerk J. Cyril Glover said he expects to have the date fixed next week.

SEAWALL WASHOUT JUST NORTH OF SYCAMORE STREET SHOWS STURDY STANISLAUS PIER IN BACKGROUND.

Single pier remains on Gulf Coast

St. Stanislaus College pier, built after the 1947 hurricane at a cost in excess of $60,000 and insured by Lloyd's of London, is reported to be the only such structure left standing on the Gulf Coast of Mississippi after Betsy went through here last week.

Some flooring was lost on the lower level but otherwise the pier, at least 20 feet higher than the average water level, was intact, according to Brother Flavian, principal.

He recalled that the old pier was only 14 feet out of the water and it went down in '47. Rebuilding was started shortly afterwards and it was ready for the summer camp season in 1948. Contractors used galvanized bolts and maintained it would withstand all hurricane force winds and water, the only danger to it being from a barge.

Brother Flavian noted it was barges in the back of the Bay in '47 which smashed through the highway and railroad bridges.

Besides the pier, the Stanislaus student body and faculty all withstood the hurricane with no ill effects. Boarders remained at the school.

Chaotic scene at L'shore

Along the main road of Lakeshore two houses were completely torn apart while the next four or five were uninjured. Here, the whole side of the house was gone with the next house in perfect condition. A fence was completely torn up; a cistern lay on its side in a roadside ditch but houses right next to it were ok. A fragile looking boat was draped with moss and trash indicating the craft came through the storm tied up right there in the canal.

On the road to the back part of Bayou Caddy property was hit much harder. Furniture lay by the roadside and bits of mattresses ornamented the fences. All the back of a house was broken, along with windows, and in the yard a statue, which weighed about 60 pounds lay, in perfect condition, on the ground near its pedestal.

At the bayou it looked like a giant had peeled the heavy corrugated steel from the boat sheds. Sticky mud pulled at your shoes. The boats must have just moved back from somewhere as they appeared undamaged. Of all the houses in this area only one escaped the water.

We walked out along the railroad track. Workers told us the track had been washed off in places all along from Lakeshore to New Orleans. We went out as far as they were working with a crane.

W.K. Walker, Louisville and Nashville Railroad divisional supervisor was on hand and we asked him if a dismantled crane had been damaged in the hurricane. He told us it was just worn out working at repairing the damage.

Candy dancers worked under the direction of a man who lay down on the tracks to direct where crews should throw still another shovel full of railroad ballast. Another crane picked up the snake-like track and held it while men tamped with shovels. In this manner the crew was able to straighten out track two or three feet at a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ortte, Russell Elliott and daughter, Patricia, greeted us as though we had just dropped in to visit. They were spending their third day cleaning trash out of the Ortte home but were very gracious and, again, as at everywhere we stopped, they talked of those who were much worse off than they.

Although we were warned about snakes by everybody we met we did not see any during the entire trip.

Disaster center opened

A disaster relief office was opened Monday by the American Red Cross in the Bay St. Louis Youth Center on Ulman Avenue.

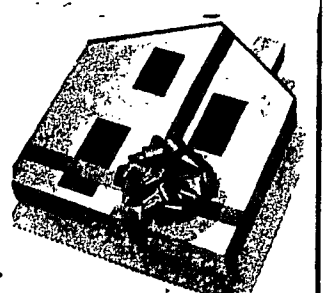

David N. McDonald, disaster chairman for the Hancock County chapter, ARC, said a team of three professional Red Cross workers has arrived to receive applications for assistance as a result of Hurricane Betsy.

They will accept applications during the next five or six days and will then start on the site inspection to determine what assistance should be provided. McDonald urged that applications be submitted promptly to speed the work.

The office will be open from 8:45 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily with Mrs. Henry Fay of Montgomery, Ala., in charge. Here with her are Mrs. Roland Osgood of Bradford, Pa., and Max Meyerich of Knoxville, Tenn.

A telephone, 467-6733, has been installed at the Youth Center for the Red Cross mission. Meanwhile the county Red Cross office has been moved temporarily from the Courthouse because of crowded conditions, with Circuit Court now in session and Mrs. M.A. Phillips, Jr., local secretary, is assisting the professional staff in addition to her routine duties.

Mr. Carver are married

Miss Dorothy Anne Harrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Clellan Harrod of Fairhope, Ala., and the late Thomas B. Dufosse, became the bride of Warren Joseph Carver, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carver of Bay St. Louis, at 10:30 a.m. last Saturday in Fairhope.

Rev. Patrick Foy performed the double ring ceremony at St. Lawrence Catholic Church.

Grover Clellan Harrod gave the bride in marriage. Her sister, Miss Mary Ellen Harrod of Biloxi was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Eleanor Harrod of Fairhope, another sister, and Dianne Carver of Bay St. Louis, sister of groom.

Aerial attack sinks Pirates

Despite numerous off-side penalties the Bay High Tigers took to the air and ripped through Pass Christian's Pirates and wound up with a 25-0 win Monday night in the Pirates stadium. The game was postponed from Friday because of wet grounds caused by a not-so-lady-like gal named Betsy.

Both coaches, Lance Lumpkin of Bay High and Lawrence Allen of Pass Christian, blamed hurricane Betsy for the somewhat ragged performance of their squads, neither team having had any practice for five days. Lumpkin said his men had been working daily including the day of the game, helping repair the damage caused by Betsy, and appeared a little tired. The entire coaching staff including Luke Caruso and J.R. Loacano bemoaned the lack of coordination that added up to a total of 65 yards in penalties chalked up against the Tigers, mostly on off-side and illegal procedure calls.

But the final score is in the record book giving the Tigers a one win and one tie record for the season, they having battled Stone High to a 0-0 tie in the mud to open the season. The Pirates are 1-1 having smashed Van Cleave 21-7 in their opener.

The Tigers uncorked a surprising passing offensive scoring four TD's via the air route and completing 13 out of 20 attempts for a total of 206 yards. They also posted 177 yards rushing for a total of 383, and captured eight first downs.

The Pirates, after a strong opening, were limited to 15 yards passing and 65 rushing. They completed three out of eight pass attempts and racked up six first downs.

Tackle Bruce Cox kicked off for the Tigers to start the fireworks. It was a low, bouncing Kick and Pirate Johnny Hodges scooped up the ball, drawing back to his own 35. The Pirates lost possession on a fumble but recovered a few plays later on a Tiger fumble and managed to drive to Bay High's 19, where the Tigers took over on downs and started marching.

The first quarter was scoreless but on the first play of the second quarter, Quarterback Dick Mestayer faded back and fired a long, high spiral directly in the arms of waiting Mike Strong who sprinted about 15 yards for first blood. The play was good for 81 yards. The kick was wide to the left. Near the end of the quarter Mestayer again hit Strong with a 30-yard screen pass for a TD and Cox's kick was good. At the end of the half the score was 13-0.

Tiger fans held their breath in the third period when Mestayer, on a quarterback sneak, was hit hard on the Pirates' goal line and the pirates squirted out of his hands but Alan Romanoff, playing a bang-up game throughout, fell on the ball for the third tally. The quarter ended when Mestayer punted to the Pirates 6 inch line.

Final score came in the fourth quarter when Mestayer again flipped a screen pass to Strong good for 18 yards and a TD.

Friday night the Tigers entertained Pearl River Central's Blue Devils of the DeSoto Conference who dropped their opener to Poplarville 33-6.

Wildcats clobber Indians

Combining a rugged defense with a strong rushing and aerial attack the Pearl River Junior College Wildcats opened their football season by bowling over the Itawamba Indians, 24-7, on Saturday at Poplarville.

Halfback Carey Bennett was the leading ground gainer for the Wildcats with 39 yards rushing. End Joel Peeler caught five passes for 80 yards and a touchdown. The Wildcats gained 114 yards on the ground and 122 in the air for a total of 236 while holding Itawamba to a total of 30.

The Wildcats travel to Ellenville for a battle with Jones Junior College this Saturday.

Betsy postpones PCI stock meet

Hurricane Betsy forced postponement of the recessed meeting of the stockholders of Pass Christian Isles Golf Club Sunday when only about one quarter of the outstanding stock was represented by proxy or in person. Those present agreed to recess the meeting again until Nov. 12.

Betsy also delayed until this Sunday the grandfathers' tournament and the women's back to school competition has been extended until Sept. 21.

Greyhounds send Hawks to roost

Without injured Quarterback Kenny Haverly in the first half, Hancock Central suffered a defeat at hands of the Greyhounds, 21-14, in the Hawk Stadium.

The Greyhounds were unable to score until the third quarter when they drove for a 25-point lead. The Hawks held the lead in the first half, but the Greyhounds scored in the second quarter.

over to Randall in the second half and the Hawks managed to outscore their rivals 21-19 but it wasn't enough. It was the Hawks' first loss of the season having beaten Sumrall 21-14 in the opener.

Bouncing off the floor after the half, on the short end of a 32-0 score, the Hawks took to the air. On a trick play, Randall passed to Wendell Lader who lateraled to Paul Cuevas who scored standing up. The play was good for 25 yards.

Again in the third period Lader grabbed a pass from Randall in the end zone and the Hawks posted 12 points for the quarter but Ocean Springs tallied 19 points and the score was 51-12.

The Greyhounds amassed a

One of the key factors in the Hawks' defeat was their inability to hit with passes, especially in the first half. They attempted 20 passes completing but four while the Greyhounds attempted 10 and completed eight.

Friday the Hawks are scheduled to invade Perkinston to battle the Stone High Tomcats.

Football forecasts to appear

The Harmon Football Forecasts, newest and one of the most popular forecasting services in the nation, will appear in the Sea Coast Echo weekly during the 1965 football season. Sponsor this week is the Hancock Bank.

Robert S. Harmon bases his forecasts on statistics and mathematical computation, each prediction being based on the relative difference of past performances. Predicted scores are based on the power quotient of each team with no opinions, guesswork or outside information entering into the rating.

Harmon's forecasting average has consistently been one of the highest in the country. Last year he picked 1,248 winners with 396 losers and 54 ties for an average of .759. During the past eight years his average is .760.

Betsy, with her high winds uprooting trees, severing limbs and down power lines, kept us busy repairing electric facilities and restoring service.

It became evident that Betsy was a threat to our area, ten additional crews from the company's Hattiesburg, Laurel and Meridian were dispatched to the Coast to augment the regular Gulfport crews stationed in the Bay St. Louis area. In addition, out-of-state and tree trimming crews from Tennessee and Alabama were called in to assist in restoring the damage.

Throughout Thursday, hurricane force winds buffeted the coastal area with occasional rain following the storm on Friday morning. This was somewhat the work of our crews in making repairs to our electrical system. By Sunday, however, most service had been restored.

This was done as quickly as humanly possible, we know that many of you do without electricity for even a short period. We regret the inconvenience caused to some of our customers during this period of emergency.
